

BROTHERHOOD CHIEFS ORDER RAIL STRIKE

RAILROAD MANAGERS REJECT ULTIMATUM

WALKOUT WILL BECOME NATION-WIDE WITHIN FIVE DAYS

Leaders Give No Indication that Even an Appeal from President Can Change Their Purpose—Flatly Refuse to Submit Case to Eight Hour Commission or to Await Supreme Court Decision on the Adamson Law

NEW YORK, March 15.—A "progressive strike" of the 400,000 members of the four great railroad brotherhoods, to begin at 6 o'clock p. m. (Central Time) Saturday on eastern roads was ordered here late today. The walkout will extend to all the railroads in the country within five days. Chiefs of the workmen's organizations set the strike machinery in motion within a few minutes after an ultimatum delivered to the conference committee of railroad managers had been rejected.

Decline Compromise Proposal.

A compromise proposal offered by the managers was declined without debate.

Only successful intervention by President Wilson it appeared tonight can avert a strike. The brotherhood leaders gave no indication that even an appeal from the nation's chief executive can change their purpose to obtain a basic eight hour day and pro rata time for overtime thru the use of the "protective" feature of their organizations. They refused flatly to submit their case to the eight hour commission headed by Major General George W. Goethals or to await the decision of the supreme court on the constitutionality of the Adamson law.

Freight employees, yardmen and engine hostlers on the New York Central lines east and west, the Nickel Plate and Baltimore & Ohio railroads, and in the great yards in Chicago and St. Louis, will be the first to leave their posts.

They will be followed on Sunday by the same classes of workmen on the Southern Railway, the Norfolk & Western, the Virginian, Chesapeake & Ohio and on a group of northwestern roads.

Make No Formal Outline of Program.

No formal outline of the brotherhoods' program beyond the plans for these two days, was made either to the managers or to the public. It was said, however, that the freight employees on the other roads in the country would be called out in groups at 12 or 24 hour intervals after Sunday. If the paralysis of freight traffic thus caused does not result in surrender by the railroads before that time the employees on all passenger trains will be ordered out Wednesday.

The railroad managers said tonight they expected that enough of their men would remain loyal to enable them to maintain a skeleton service on most roads. The managers some time ago caused a census of their employees to be taken to determine how many would refuse to go on strike. This resulted, it was said in varying percentages, ranging from a very few on some roads to from fifty to sixty per cent on others.

The managers estimated that between 30,000 and 40,000 men are employed on the roads on which the strike is to begin Saturday night. The members of the manager's committee will remain here until tomorrow. If the men ask another conference it will be granted. They said they would make every effort to operate their roads in spite of the strike. Preference will be given to the movements of trains carrying food and fuel.

Men Tired of Arbitration

When the managers in their counter-proposition at the final momentous conference offered to abide by any decree of the Goethals commission if the Adamson act were declared unconstitutional, W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, spokesman for the employees, declared: "That would only be another form of arbitration and our men are sick and tired of arbitration."

The brotherhood chiefs contend their demand for the basic eight hour day for all classes of work with pro rata for overtime, would give them only what they would gain under the provisions of the Adamson law. They have abandoned their original demand for time and a half for overtime.

Declaring that the rank and file of the brotherhood membership had become impatient and would tolerate no further delay in enforcing their demands, Mr. Lee said the supreme court might adjourn without handing down a decision on the Adamson act. In that event he declared there would be no decision until next winter, and the men would not wait.

Agreed to Accept Decree

The managers' refusal to comply with the ultimatum of the brotherhood was based upon the contention that they must "await and abide" by the decision of the supreme court on the Adamson act. They asserted their willingness to submit the whole controversy to the eight hour commission if the law is declared unconstitutional and agreed to accept any decree of the commission.

Pointing out to the four chiefs the grave international crisis which confronts the nation, they appealed

U.S. AWARDS ORDERS FOR TEN CRUISERS

Private Builders Undertake to Turn Out Four Battle and Six Scout Cruisers

ALL ARE OF NEW TYPE

Ships Will Cost Nearly $112,000,000 for Hulls and Machinery Alone

DESIGNED FOR 35 KNOTS

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Contracts for what is believed to be the largest single order for fighting craft ever given by any nation were placed today by the navy department.

Navy Yard to Build One

Private builders undertook to turn out four great battle cruisers and six scout cruisers, costing nearly $112,000,000 for hulls and machinery alone, and pledged themselves to keep seventy percent of their working forces on navy construction. In response to an appeal to their patriotism by Secretary Daniels the major shipbuilders have agreed to accept ten percent net profit on the battle cruisers, whose cost will represent $76,000,000 of the total sum involved in today's contracts. A fifth battle cruiser will be built at the Philadelphia navy yard.

The builders are besieged with offers of merchant work and are getting as high as fifty percent profit on these jobs with more work in sight than they can do. They have placed their facilities at the disposal of the government, making it unnecessary for the president to consider employing authority to commandeer plants.

Designed for 35 Knots

Both classes of cruisers ordered today are new types to naval architecture and are designed for a speed of 35 knots an hour.

The scouts were awarded on bids submitted yesterday, prices ranging from $5,950,000 to $5,996,000 and stipulated time of delivery from 30 to 32 months. These figures can be no guide to the actual cost of time however, as under the emergency clause of the naval appropriation bill construction will be hastened to the limit, the government footing the bill for additional cost. The battle cruisers, the fixed limit of cost of which is $19,000,000 per ship, exclusive of speeding up expense, were placed as follows:

Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, two ships.

Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, one ship.

New York Shipbuilding Company, one ship.

To Equip Philadelphia Yard

With the exception of the New York company, each private builder will have to install new ways and machinery for the huge craft. Already an appropriation of $6,000,000 has been ordered expended to equip the Philadelphia yard for capital shipbuilding.

Four of the scout cruisers will be built on the Pacific Coast, two by the Seattle Construction Company and two by the Union Iron Works at San Francisco. The other two will be built by William Cramp and Sons, Philadelphia.

Of the authorized building program there remained to be contracted for, three dreadnaughts, 33 submarines, fifteen destroyers and several auxiliary vessels.

The ultimate cost to the government of the ships ordered will exceed many millions the figures given for hull and machinery.

It will cost $445,692 per ship to arm and equip the scouts and $5,337,810 additional for each battle cruiser.

Dreadnaught Plans Incomplete

Plans for the three 42,000 ton dreadnaughts are not completed. At least two, possibly all three, will have to go to government yards. The department has available $12,000,000 additional appropriation for fitting yards for this work. In addition a considerable number of destroyers and submarines must be laid down at the yards, as the private plants are overtaxed with the work before them.

The chief characteristics of the scout cruisers are as follows:

Displacement 7,100 tons; speed 35 knots; length 550 feet; beam 55 feet; armament eight 6-inch guns, four torpedo tubes and two 3-inch anti-aircraft guns; complement 330.

RAIL STRIKE ORDER AMAZES PRESIDENT

Expected Meeting Would Result In Agreement

White House Authorizes No Statement and All Officials Profess to Be Ignorant of What the President Intends to Do

Washington, March 15.—Word that a general railroad strike had been ordered to begin Saturday night was received by President Wilson tonight with amazement. He had confidently expected the meeting between the railroad and brotherhood representatives in New York would result in some kind of agreement that would prevent interference with transportation facilities at least while the nation is on the verge of war.

No statement was authorized by the white house and all officials professed to be ignorant of what the president might intend to do.

The president is known to regard a strike as inconceivable in view of the international crisis the already congested condition of freight traffic and the ever rising cost of food.

After a telephone conference with Secretary Wilson of the labor department it is understood the president decided to make no move tonight.

There is a disposition among some administration officials to believe that even if it begins Saturday the Progressive plan for the strike never would be carried to conclusion. Before next Wednesday the day by which it is proposed to make the walkout effective throughout the country, they believe a compromise will have been reached.

A proposed law under which the president would have been empowered to take over and operate the railroads in time of emergency failed to reach a vote during the last session of congress.

RUSSIAN MINISTRY SWEPT OUT OF OFFICE

REVOLT GROWS FROM MINOR FOOD RIOTS AND LABOR STRIKES

Regiments Rebel One by One Until Finally Those Troops That Had Stood Loyal, Joined Revolutionists—One Minister Killed, Others Imprisoned—Emperor's Younger Brother Named Regent

PETROGRAD, March 16.—The emperor of Russia has abdicated and the Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, his younger brother, has been named as regent. The Russian ministry, charged with corruption and incompetence, has been swept out of office. One minister, Alexander Protopopoff, head of the interior department, is reported to have been killed and the other ministers, as well as the president of the imperial council are under arrest.

Announce New National Cabinet.

A new national cabinet is announced, with Prince Lvoff, as president of the council and premier, and the other offices held by men who are close to the Russian people.

For several days Petrograd has been the scene of one of the most remarkable risings in history. Beginning with minor food riots and labor strikes, the cry for food reached the hearts of the soldiers, and one by one the regiments rebelled, until finally those troops that had for a time stood loyal to the government, took up their arms and marched into the ranks of the revolutionists.

The president of the duma, Michael V. Rodzianko, was the leading figure among the deputies who unanimously decided to oppose the imperial order for a dissolution of the house. They continued their sessions and M. Rodzianko informed the emperor, then at the front, that the hour had struck when the will of the people must prevail. Even the imperial council realized the gravity of the situation and added its appeal to that of the duma that the emperor should take steps to give the people a policy of government in accordance with their desires and in order that there should be no interference with carrying on the war to a victorious ending.

Finds New Government in Control.

The emperor hastened back from the front, only to find the revolution had been successful and that a new government was in control.

The empress, who, it is alleged, has been influential in the councils opposed to the wishes of the people, is reported to have fled or to be in hiding.

Altho considerable fighting took place, it is not believed the casualties are large.

The early part of the uprising bore the character rather of a mock revolution staged for an immense audience. Cosacks charging down the street did so in a half-hearted fashion, plainly without malice or intent to harm the crowds that they playfully dispersed. The troops exchanged good natured ribaldry with the workmen and women and as they rode were cheered by the populace.

Long lines of soldiers stationed in dramatic attitude across Nevsky Prospect with their guns pointed at an imaginary foe, appeared to be taking part in a realistic tableau. Machine guns firing volleys of blank cartridges seemed to add another realistic touch to a tremendous theatrical production, which was using the whole city as a stage.

Becomes Genuine in a Flash.

Until Sunday night this pageant continued without serious interruption. Then in a flash the whole scene lost its theatrical quality; it became a genuine revolution.

The regiments had received an order from the commandant to fire upon persons assembled in the street. This caused immediate dissension among the troops, who did not understand why they should be compelled to take violent measures against fellow citizens whose chief offense was that they were hungry and were asking the government to supply bread. Several regiments deserted and a battle began between the troops who stood with the government and those who, refusing to obey orders, had mutinied.

Police Flew to Roots.

A long night battle occurred between the mutinous regiments and the police at the end of St. Catherine Canal, immediately in front of the historic church built over the spot where Alexander II was killed by a bomb. The police finally fled to roof tops all over the city and were seen no more in the streets during the fighting.

Still on Monday morning the government troops appeared to control all the principal squares of the city. Then came a period when it was impossible to distinguish one side from the other. There was no definite line between the factions. The turning point appeared to come about three o'clock in the afternoon. For two hours the opposing regiments passively confronted each other along the wide Liteiny Prospect in almost complete silence.

PAUL M'KINNEY'S BODY FOUND IN LAKE

Young Man Was Drowned Last October When His Boat Capsized.

A letter received by Mrs. R. R. Stevenson yesterday told of the finding of the remains of Paul McKinney, who was drowned in Lake Michigan last October. Following the accident days were spent in an effort to recover the body without avail at the time. Relatives had despaired of ever finding the body but it was recovered recently by chance. Identification was possible by means of a ring the young man wore at the time of the accident. The body was cremated.

It will be remembered that the young man left his home one afternoon to go to the lake and continue some work that he had begun in overhauling the engine on his boat. He later decided to go out on the lake for a short time and it was then that the boat was capsized and although an excellent swimmer he was caught in the swift current and drowned.

GERMAN PLOT IN MEXICO HAS MANY RAMIFICATIONS.

Information which comes to Washington from Mexico indicates that the Zimmerman note gave only an indication of Germany's endeavor to the governmental policy in Mexico. Evidently German agents and German money have been employed there for months past and a plot for an alliance of Mexico with Germany if actual warfare with the U. S. comes, has many ramifications. The situation is one which gives evidence of the foresight, if not the wisdom, of German diplomacy.

WATER POWER WASTE.

One beneficial result which will come from the high price of coal will be the greater attention given to water power. Undoubtedly there is an immense total of water power in this state on the Illinois, Mississippi and other rivers now going to waste. In Chicago the increased value of water power has just been pointed out by the letting of the contract for the municipal coal supply at a figure which means an increased cost to the consumers of $250,000 for the one year.

THE TARIFF BOARD.

Members of the tariff commission appointed by President Wilson do not measure up to public hope in the matter of experience and qualifications.

The chairman of the board is professor of economics who has dealt entirely with the theoretical side of the tariff question and who has very pronounced anti-protection views. Some other members chosen have had a comparatively limited experience in the business world and altogether the board is not one which gives reason for the expectation that the very big problems which confront them will be handled in a very big way.

The duplicity of Count Bernstorff while serving as ambassador of Germany in this country is proven by his own words. When the first news reached him that the Zimmerman plot had been discovered in the U. S., the count expressed great surprise. Some other members chosen have had a comparatively limited experience in the business world and altogether the board is not one which gives reason for the expectation that the very big problems which confront them will be handled in a very big way.

The Bernstorff who made this statement in Berlin is far different from the peace-loving ambassador that Bernstorff seemed to be a few months ago in Washington; the Bernstorff who received his passports with tears streaming down his face.

It was a project for the eventualities of war. Who can say anything against it? According to the instructions to the German minister to Mexico it is clear that if the United States did not declare war on Germany, Mexico never would have heard of Germany's intentions from a German mouth."

LEGISLATIVE BUDGET BEST.

The executive budget system which Maryland adopted a few months ago with a loud flourish of trumpets seems to be found wanting in practice. An executive budget for the nation would probably prove no more satisfactory. Any budget system for the nation should have its origin and force thru Congressional action. An executive budget is more likely than not to turn out a more avenue for swelling executive demands and for affording opportunity for the minor bureaus and departments of the government to exploit themselves at public expense. A Congressional budget, on the other hand, fortified as it should be with amplified information, would strengthen the powers of the people's representatives and would afford an opportunity for a tighter reign upon expenditures. A Congressional budget should be prepared upon full knowledge, gathered by Congress itself, and thus affording a new and stronger application of the doctrine of checks and balances upon which our government was founded and which must be maintained if the government is to endure as the fathers intended.

HOW A SUBMARINE REVEALS HERSELF.

A submarine always reveals its presence to the seeing eye. If near the surface, her periscope leaves the betraying wake, and even when she is a hundred feet or more under water, she always disturbs the surface in a way that, to the experienced observer, makes her presence known. The watcher in an airplane quickly sees such disturbances, even if the submersible is too far under the sea to be seen itself.

But the important fact is that the submarine spends most of her time on the surface. The U. S.'s ability to sail seventy miles under water without rising is regarded as a great achievement. Most submarines, that is, cannot keep submerged nearly so long. The reason is that it has to come to the surface to recharge its electric batteries. This recharging is done by the oil engines which can work only on the surface, because of the exhaust. In addition to its other disadvantages, this recharging process makes a noise that can be heard five miles away, while undergoing this ordeal, the submarine is in a helpless condition, and a well aimed shot, even from a small gun, such as a motor boat can carry, can pierce its thin steel plates and send it to the bottom.—The World's Work for March.

DEAN DAVENPORT SUGGESTED FOR AGRICULTURE HEAD.

The Bloomington Pantagraph thoroly approves the consolidation bill recently put thru the Illinois legislature creating nine state departments. That paper, which has made large contributions toward better agriculture in Illinois for years past, comes forward with a suggestion which is certainly well worth the consideration of the governor. This suggestion is that Dr. Eugene Davenport be asked to become the head of the state department of agriculture.

The Pantagraph does not think that he should be taken away permanently from the University of Illinois, where his work has been of such high order, but believes that for the good of the state he should be asked to take the work for a four year period. This is a portion of what the Pantagraph says in support of this suggestion:

"The Pantagraph has just one suggestion. Why not call out a man whose outstanding experience in this very line of work for a score of years would insure the best service in this difficult new job? A man whom the whole state knows, a man who is a life long student of these very problems. A man who has built and now stands at the head of a set of men working in the very lines of the sections in this department. A man whose executive ability and thoughtful management has for its monument one of the greatest and most strongly established institutions of the state—the University of Illinois college of agriculture. Why not ask Dean Davenport to undertake this careful work of building a state department of agriculture? We would not take him away from the University, just borrow him for four years, to work out the plan and set the standards, just as the college lent Dr. Hopkins to the south for a year. Doubtless this would not be agreeable to Dr. Davenport or to the University. But isn't he the man so greatly needed for the new job at Springfield?

"For sheer demonstrated ability, in the very field demanded, for the confidence of all the people, for insurance that this job would be done right, and that it would be worked out without political bias or cheapness of any sort, is there any name in Illinois that would stand in competition with that of Dr. Eugene Davenport?"

"It is a big service to ask of such a man, but are not the future agricultural interests of Illinois big enough and vital enough to make their call upon just such a tried servant of the people? Look at the work demanded in those different sections in this department, and then try to find a man whose knowledge level and executive ability peculiarly fit him for the difficult work involved, and see if his name is spelled any other way than D-a-v-e-n-p-o-r-t."

The Bernstorff who made this statement in Berlin is far different from the peace-loving ambassador that Bernstorff seemed to be a few months ago in Washington; the Bernstorff who received his passports with tears streaming down his face.

It was a project for the eventualities of war. Who can say anything against it? According to the instructions to the German minister to Mexico it is clear that if the United States did not declare war on Germany, Mexico never would have heard of Germany's intentions from a German mouth."

The books that Henry Thoreau wrote are little read, these latter days, men care not how a hermit pote disported in the woodland ways. The struggle after stock and bond is so intense we little heed the nature lover by his pond, with hair and whiskers gone to seed. Yet never should his fame grow stale, while big assessments stick like wax; he is the man who went to jail before he'd pay a county tax.

Reference is made to the grand display of L. C. & R. E. Henry, the Opera House milliners. The beautiful products are a sample of every day work as an order from any lady will testify.

MISS WOOD THE WINNER OF J. H. S. DECLAMATORY

Miss Carol Hall Secures Second Honors in Contest Thursday Night—No School in City Today

Miss Bernice Wood was winner of first honors and Miss Carol Hall stood second Thursday evening in the annual contest in declamation at Jacksonville High school. The winning selection was "The Hazing of Valiant," and Miss Hall spoke.

Miss Margaret Irving took fourth place in the contest. The contestants had previously been selected from a larger number in the high school societies and were thus already winners in the preliminaries.

The judges were the Rev. M. L. Pontius, the Rev. A. A. Todd and L. C. Robinson, principal of Whipple Academy. In addition to the declamations there were enjoyable musical numbers by the glee club and chorus.

No School Today

The schools of the city have been dismissed for today in order to allow the teachers to attend the meeting of the Teachers' association at waverly. The teachers will leave on the 6:50 o'clock C. B. & Q., which will be provided with an extra coach. The program will be finished in time to allow Jacksonville visitors to return on the 4:30 o'clock afternoon train.

The J. H. S. affirmative debating team will leave this forenoon for Springfield and will meet the team from the capital city high school tonight. Miss Laura Smith, Earl Priest and John Corrington are the debaters and Miss Dorothy Chipchase is alternate. The debaters will be accompanied by Miss Sophia Kent and Coaca Hoffer.

The Debate at 4:30 p.m. Albert DeWittie, William Miller and Miss Esther Wetzel are the debaters who will meet the affirmative team from Quincy at 4:30 p.m. in Auditorium. Vinton Woods is alternate. The judges will be Prof. A. A. Middlebush of Knox College and Prof. George E. Edwards of Bradley Polytechnic, Peoria.

A "pop" meeting was held at the high school Thursday during the noon hour to work up enthusiasm for the debate.

FINE WEATHER BROUGHT THRONGHS FOR OPENINGS

Spring Displays in Jacksonville Stores Were Never More Hand-some or Extensive—Various Lines Co-operated

Dame nature and the weather man were surely propitious yesterday to the many openings and displays at the business places of Jacksonville merchants. Any observer going about the square and side business streets would have been impressed deeply with the fact that Jacksonville merchants are strictly up to date in their manner of doing business and in the quality and extent of the stocks they bring to the city. The stocks this year give ample proof that no Morgan county resident need go outside of Jacksonville to secure the most correct and dependable offerings.

In taste and judgment the merchants of Jacksonville are excellent buyers studying well the wants and desires of their patrons and are always alert to secure the latest in their lines. It has often been remarked that the stocks carried by our city merchants compare very favorably with those to be found in places much larger and more pretentious than this.

Spring and fall opening days are always anticipated with great pleasure and even eagerness by the people of this city and vicinity for they have come to know that they will see something well worth investigation and whether they buy or not they will be welcomed in every store they visit. The throngs on the street and in the business houses yesterday were gratifying and it was evident that they were well pleased with what they saw.

Naturally the milliners led in the matter of display while dry goods and some other lines also had special attractions. Clothing stores, furniture establishments, and even hardware stores made some effort to have things to see especially for the day and the Railway & Light company joined in the exhibit.

Among firms which had made special preparations for the day were F. J. Waddell & Co., J. Herman, Floreth Co., Hillerby Dry Goods Store, The Emporium, H. J. & L. M. Smith, C. J. Deppe & Co., Harmon's Dry Goods Store, C. C. Phelps Dry Goods Co., L. C. & R. E. Henry, The Abington Hat Shop, Miller Hat Shop, Carroll Millinery Parlor, Miss Emma Cook, T. M. Brennan.

Phillip R. Dunn, deputy fire marshal, completed his schedule Tuesday evening for the educational fire prevention campaign, to be held here Tuesday and Wednesday. Today Mr. Dunn expects to go to Pittsfield to arrange for a similar campaign there.

At least ten representatives of the fire marshal's department will be in the city Tuesday morning ready to begin the tour of inspection of the business section and of all public buildings. The construction of buildings, condition of wiring, cleanliness of premises, hanging of doors, etc., will all be considered by the inspectors and where the rules of the department are infringing the proper means of remedy will be pointed out.

The chief event in the educational campaign will be a public mass meeting at Central Christian church Tuesday night. Following is the schedule as announced by Mr. Dunn:

Tuesday, 1:30 p.m., Grand Opera House—Address to pupils of the high school, Brown's Business College and older pupils of the German Lutheran school.

Tuesday, 3 p.m., Routt College auditorium—Lecture to pupils of Routt college and parochial schools.

Tuesday, 8 p.m., Central Christian church—Public meeting.

Wednesday, 10 a.m., Illinois Woman's College chapel.

Wednesday, 2:30 p.m., Grand Opera House—Talk to grade pupils of public schools and younger pupils of Lutherian school.

Thursday, 7:45 a.m., Illinois college chapel.

Thursday, 7:30 p.m., Passavant Memorial hospital, joined by Our Savior's hospital.

RUSSIAN MINISTRY SWEEP OUT OF OFFICE

tire section of Petrograd, in which are located the Duma building; artillery headquarters and the chief military barracks passed into the hands of the revolutionary forces and the warfare swept like a tornado to other parts of the city, where the scene was duplicated.

At first it seemed a miracle that the revolutionists, without pre-arranged plan, without leadership or organization could in such a short time and with comparative ease achieve a complete victory over the government. But the explanation lay in the reluctance of the troops to take sides against the people and their desertion to the ranks of those who opposed the government.

Street Scenes Remarkable.

The scenes in the streets were by this time remarkable. The wide thoroughfares where the troops were stationed were completely deserted by civilians except for a few daring individuals, who creeping along the walls and ducking into court yards, spied from one side to the other.

But the side streets were choked with people. Groups of students easily distinguished by their blue caps and dark uniforms fell into step with rough units of rebel soldiers and were joined by other heterogeneous elements united for the time being by a cause greater than partisan differences. Unkempt workingmen, with ragged sheepskin coats covering the conventional peasants' costume of dark blouse and top boots, strode side by side with well groomed city clerks and shopkeepers.

This strange army of people mustered on the street corners shouldered their newly acquired rifles and marched out to join the ranks of the deserting regiments.

At nightfall only one small district of the city containing the war offices, the admiralty buildings, St. Isaac's Cathedral and the Military Hotel still resisted the onslaught of the revolutionary forces and the battle for the possession of Petrograd came to a dramatic conclusion.

Ministers Secretly Assemble.

In the admiralty building the council of ministers secretly assembled for a conference and the last regiments loyal to the old government were drawn up as a guard.

While the council sat in the last meeting they were destined to hold, the building was surrounded and the besiegers poured rifle and machine gun fire upon the defenders.

For a few hours the fiercest battle of the day continued, the streets were swept by a steady fusillade and the crowds scattered for the nearest shelter, some of the people being compelled to spend the night in court yard, corridors of office buildings or wherever they first found refuge.

Toward morning there was a sudden lull broken by exultant shouts which deepened into a roar and was succeeded by the Russian revolutionary Marseillaise. The regiments defending the Admiralty had surrendered and gone over to the side of the revolutionists.

The ministers in the admiralty building were then arrested and the Russian national colors were replaced by the red flag of the revolutionists.

Altho sporadic fighting continued between small groups continued until Wednesday, the "cause of the people" had triumphed.

When you are worried by backache;

By lameness and urinary disorders—

Don't experiment with an untried medicine.

Follow Jacksonville people's example:

Use Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's Jacksonville's testimony.

Verify it if you wish:

Mrs. J. H. Allen, 305 E. Washington St., Jacksonville, says: "I had attacks of dizziness and it seemed as if spots appeared before my eyes and I could hardly walk straight. Rheumatic pains in my knees always gave me warning of approaching attacks. My kidneys were very frequent in action and at one time my bladder was badly inflamed. A doctor told me that I had kidney weakness, and, having heard so much about Doan's Kidney Pills, I decided to give them a trial. I used three boxes and they cured me."

Price 50¢, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mrs. Allen. Foster-Milburn Co., Probs., Buffalo, N. Y.

The defenders of the old regime—doubtless a few remain uncaptured by the police—put up a last feeble defense last night from the roofs of the wrecked Astoria Mill Hotel and St. Isaac's Cathedral, facing on two sides of the same square. They were soon silenced by the sharpshooters of the new authority.

With the re-opening of bread, sugar, tea and meatshops, lines of women with shopping bags and baskets, often extending to the length of a block, were formed to replenish stores exhausted by the long siege.

The most phenomenal feature of the revolution has been the swift and orderly transition whereby the control of the city passed from the hands of its opponents. Until Sunday disorders in the streets, which never went beyond quiet gatherings or mild demonstrations, could not properly be termed a revolution at all.

Troops Kill Officers

The order dissolving the Duma—doubtless a few remain uncaptured by the police—put up a last feeble defense last night from the roofs of the wrecked Astoria Mill Hotel and St. Isaac's Cathedral, facing on two sides of the same square. They were soon silenced by the sharpshooters of the new authority.

After thirty six hours of continuous street fighting the whole area of Petrograd was on Tuesday noon in the hands of the revolutionists. That trouble would result was evidently anticipated and the residents of Tsarkoe-Selo were warned to make all arrangements to remain in the suburb for an indefinite period and the roads leading to the town were guarded.

The immediate occurrences leading to Monday's developments began at five o'clock Sunday evening, when the men of the Volynsky regiment shot their officers and revolted after receiving an order to fire on striking workmen in one of the factory districts. Another regiment detailed against the mutineers also joined the revolt.

The news spread rapidly to the other barracks and four other regiments went over. Some of the revolting troops marched to the famous St. Peter and St. Paul fortress on the left bank of the Neva and after a brief skirmish with the garrison took possession of it.

Tuesday revolutionary bulletins appeared in the streets, with the simple caption "News," containing a resume of the developments.

They were eagerly read by all classes. Rodzianko's telegrams to the emperor and others to the commanders of the troops at the fronts were reproduced. The first message to the emperor was as follows:

RAILROAD MANAGERS REJECT ULTIMATUM

capitulated after a sustained battle on the Moravia and made no further resistance to the revolutionists who controlled the entire city. The police had disappeared from the streets which were patrolled by automobiles packed with soldiers and students, who were wildly cheered by the people as they sped by.

The government was declared to be overthrown by the Duma leaders who met in the Maveritchsky Palace after the regular session had been adjourned by imperial ukase.

The Duma joined hands with the revolution in being dissolved by the emperor and declaring the existing government had been overthrown.

The Duma resumed its sittings after it had sent the notification to the emperor of these developments, warning him that the fate of the dynasty depended on acceptance of the new order of affairs.

The city is now quiet. Perfect order prevails. So far as is known no foreigners were injured. All the ministers resigned with the exception of M. Protopopoff. Former Premier Sturmer, premier Golitzine and the head of the secret police were arrested. The jails were thrown open. The headquarters of the secret police and several government buildings were burned.

The empress is supposed to be in the palace, but this is uncertain. Patrols Refuse to Fire

Events leading up to the revolution began a week ago with street demonstrations of working men who quit work as a protest against the shortage of bread. The first two days mounted patrols kept the crowds moving without resorting to violence. When ordered to fire on the people they refused. Police were substituted and a battle occurred between them and the troops. Regiments after regiments joined the revolutionaries and seized arsenals and other strategic points. Until Sunday night there was no intimation that the affair would grow to the proportions of a revolution. From then until Tuesday morning, almost continuous fighting in the streets and throughout the city occurred, leaving the revolutionists in full control.

Street car service was suspended from the beginning of the disorders and stores were closed. The two leading hotels which housed officers were wrecked; others restricted their service to regular patrons. In response to an appeal by the revolutionist committees citizens distributed food to the soldiers.

The Duma was dissolved by imperial order effective March 11, the imperial ukase reading as follows:

"The sittings of the Duma are adjourned owing to extraordinary circumstances until further notice. They will be resumed not later than April."

Planks were pulled down from windows long closed. Stores, banks and business establishments of every description re-opened their doors for the resumption of ordinary activities, seemingly as confidence in the new temporary government gained in force. Truck sleds and little sleighs for hire, the most widely appreciated convenience of Russian cities, began to appear again in the streets that for six days had been absolutely void of any means of private transportation.

Newspapers, with the exception of revolutionary publications which sprang into life with the success of the revolt, had failed to reappear. Street car service at noon had not been resumed but it was believed night would see partial service.

Ruins Only Visible Sign

The only visible signs of the desperate clash of authority that turned the city into a battle ground were the charred ruins of the jail, which are still pouring a cloud of smoke skyward, and the remains of other police institutions and the homes of the few individuals who were regarded as offenders against the rights of the people. In front of other government institutions, which apparently it was not seen fit to destroy, are piles of charred embers smowing where wreckage and documents had been dumped and consumed.

The defenders of the old regime—doubtless a few remain uncaptured by the police—put up a last feeble defense last night from the roofs of the wrecked Astoria Mill Hotel and St. Isaac's Cathedral, facing on two sides of the same square. They were soon silenced by the sharpshooters of the new authority.

On Monday the Duma members, except the Rightists met in executive session notwithstanding the dissolution order. The result was a virtually unanimous vote to place the Duma squarely on the side of the revolution and to authorize the executive council of that body to declare the present government overthrown and organize a provisional government.

President Rodzianko who presided sent a telegram to the emperor informing him of the developments and calling on him to listen to the voice of the people.

"The hour has struck," he said, "when the will of the people must prevail."

The following have been named as the "staff" of the temporary government:

Michael V. Rodzianko; N. V. Nekrasoff; A. I. Konovaloff; L. I. Dmitrioff; A. F. Kerensky; M. S. Pashkevich; V. V. Shuigin; S. I. Shidlovsky; Paul N. Miliukoff; M. A. Makarauoff; V. N. Lvov; V. A. Rjevsky; Colonel Engelhard.

Trouble Evidently Anticipated

The order dissolving the Duma was issued by the emperor just before he left for the front recently.

That trouble would result was evidently anticipated and the residents of Tsarkoe-Selo were warned to make all arrangements to remain in the suburb for an indefinite period and the roads leading to the town were guarded.

The immediate occurrences leading to Monday's developments began at five o'clock Sunday evening, when the men of the Volynsky regiment shot their officers and revolted after receiving an order to fire on striking workmen in one of the factory districts.

Another regiment detailed against the mutineers also joined the revolt.

The news spread rapidly to the other barracks and four other regiments went over. Some of the revolting troops marched to the famous St. Peter and St. Paul fortress on the left bank of the Neva and after a brief skirmish with the garrison took possession of it.

Tuesday revolutionary bulletins appeared in the streets, with the simple caption "News," containing a resume of the developments.

They were eagerly read by all classes. Rodzianko's telegrams to the emperor and others to the commanders of the troops at the fronts were reproduced. The first message to the emperor was as follows:

First Message to the Czar.

The situation is grave. Anarchy reigns in the capital. The government is paralyzed. The transportation of food and fuel is completely disorganized. General dissatisfaction is growing. Irregular rifle firing is occurring in the streets. It is necessary to charge immediately some person trusted by the people to form a new government. It is impossible to linger since delay means death. Praying God that the responsibility in this hour will not fall upon a crowned head."

The entertainment was advertised as a Minstrel Musical Comedy and Vod'v'l Oddity in two acts and six scenes. The production was given under the direction of the Joe Bren company of Chicago with Charles Sapp in charge of the active rehearsals. George Stephens, dance director and Phillip Schwarz musical director. That they knew their business was shown by the precision in which the action was given by the cast throughout the performance. A pleasing feature and one which helped to round out the entertainment was the special scenery which was brought from Chicago for the occasion.

The Minstrel Show

The minstrel part opened with a prelude, "And They Called it Dixie Land," by the Harmonists and an opening melody, "The Ragtime Minstrels," by the entire company.

"Brutus Caesar Anthony Lee," was sung by Percy Cherry. Mr. Cherry is an old favorite in Elk shows and his work last night was well received. Albert Strausser sang in a pleasing manner, "Turn Back the Universe." Mr. Strausser has a splendid voice and it was revealed to good advantage in his number. Charles J. Ator was a scream in his song, "I Sent My Wife to the Thousand Isles." "Pray for the Lights to Go Out," was sung by L. L. Jaeger. Mr. Jaeger won much favor with the audience. George W. Vasconcellos is one of the old standbys of the Elks and his song, "Yacki Hacki Wicki Wacki Won," was received vociferously. Robert M. Boyd who has been heard frequently of late gave a splendid rendition of the ballad "The Garden of the Gods." Mr. Boyd has a splendid tenor voice and it was displayed to good advantage and the audience was insistent for more. Harry P. Obermeyer sang "When That Mobile Boy Sings the Memphis Blues." Mr. Obermeyer is a favorite with local theater audiences and he was seen at his best last night.

He was united in marriage to Mary E. Gaston at Versailles May 1, 1868. To this union four children were born, two of whom preceded him in death. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss LuLu Casteen of Woodson and one son William H. Casteen of St. Louis.

Mr. Casteen resided in Jacksonville for a number of years and was a man highly regarded by all who knew him. He was a member of Centenary church. Funeral services will be held at Woodson this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The remains will then be taken to Versailles for burial.

Thorpe.

Mrs. Lydia Henderson Thorpe of Greenfield passed away Thursday evening at 5 o'clock after an illness of a week's duration at Passavant hospital.

Mrs. Thorpe was born Sept. 17, 1841, the daughter of Edwin and Eliza Henderson and was among the oldest and most highly respected residents of her home community.

She was a woman whose many good qualities of heart and mind attracted friends on every hand and her passing will be the source of keen regret on the part of many. Mrs. Thorpe was a member of the Presbyterian church.

Surviving the deceased are two daughters, Miss Effie Thorpe of Greenfield and Willa, the wife of the Rev. Jesse Thornton, a former resident of Jacksonville and now a missionary in Kobe, Japan. Three sisters and two brothers survive Mrs. Thorpe. They are Miss Helen Henderson, Mrs. Alice Stilson and Mrs. Mary Stickle, all of Greenfield; A. E. Henderson, Greenfield, and Frank Henderson, Jackson, Miss. The late J. W. Waller was a cousin of Mrs. Thorpe.

The body was taken to the home of Mrs. J. W. Waller, 329 East Superior avenue and will be sent for burial to Greenfield, leaving on the 11:20 o'clock C. B. & Q. train, via Concord. The funeral will be held in Greenfield at a time to be announced.

Finney.

James Blue of this city has received word of the death of his daughter, Mrs. Nellie Finney, the end coming somewhat suddenly in Springfield, the home of the deceased.

The body will arrive from Springfield this afternoon via the Wabash and will be taken to the home of Mrs. Eliza Hitt on Chestnut street. The time of the funeral will be announced later.

ANOTHER GRAND TRIUMPH

MR. AND MRS. J. HERMAN
PLEASE ALL BEHOLDERS

Such a Stock of Millinery and Ready to Wear Goods Never Before Seen in Jacksonville

In these stirring days time is a valuable asset and railroad and hotel expenses are to be considered. Milady wants the very latest and choicest of the centers of fashion have to offer and begins to compute the cost of a trip to the city but decides to wait for Herman's opening when, to her delight, she finds a journey to the center of fashion is accomplished, not by an expensive trip to a distant city but by a call at the popular establishment conducted by our enterprising home merchant. Something new each year is noticeable and this year it is silk waists and skirts in fine variety.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman spent weeks selecting the goods they knew the ladies of this city and vicinity would desire and they bought a great stock of the best and choicest. From early opening till late in the evening yesterday the throngs which visited the store were indeed delighted with the wealth of choice goods both in millinery and ready to wear lines.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Open daily (except Sunday) from 9 to 12 a. m. and 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. Open Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 to 9:30. Single admissions 25c. Season ticket good any time 75c.

MILLINERY EXTRAORDINARY.
The enterprising house of H. L. & B. W. Smith dispatched its head trimmer, Fredericus Darrhageus to distant Fairbank where fashions are the latest and the result was seen in their window yesterday. Hats à la tinpanne, kettle, cuspideoreugh and bakerius were trimmed with gaudy plumes composed of choice files, elegant forks, bristleus and similar designs. The display attracted much attention and many compliments were bestowed on all connected with the deal.

FUNERAL NOTICE

The remains of Mrs. Hannah Shreve will be removed to the residence of Joseph Shreve 1102 South Main street this morning. Friends wishing to view the remains may do so any time after noon today. ## GREAT DISPLAY AT LIGHT COMPANY OFFICE

The Useful and the Beautiful Shown in Goodly Array with Full Demonstrations By Experts.

Could our great grandmothers come back to earth and could they have seen the display yesterday at the establishment of the Jacksonville Railway & Light company, what astonishment would have filled their souls.

As Mr. McLaren showed them the electrical appliances they would have missed the ancient broom and dustpan, the flat iron, the tallow dip and many other things as they noted how easily the vacuum cleaner removed the dust and dirt from the floor, how nicely the electric flat irons smoothed out the linen while the room was not heated; then they would have remembered how they scorched their foreheads toasting bread; how they had to get kindling for a fire for even the smallest bit of cooking now done so nicely in a chafing dish and so on all through the piece.

Then when their wonderment was at its height and it seemed as if nothing more could be added, Mr. Bradish would ask them to step over to his side and look at the gas cooking affairs and they would wonder how they ever managed to get along with the Dutch oven, the tin reflector, the pane board or even the wonderful step stove which seemed the perfection of cooking appliances.

They would see the newest inventions in gas ranges, all enameled which makes keeping clean so easy. One valve would suffice to turn the gas on the oven and set the contents baking simply by applying a match and the ovens would be so convenient, all on top of the stove. Then the water heaters, one kind attached to the water tank, another working instantaneously from the basement and the kind that attach over the sink or bathtub.

It certainly would seem as if perfection in electric and gas appliances had been reached.

BOYS ACCUSED OF STEALING IRON.

Clay Marshall aged 19 years and Albert Curios aged 16 years were arrested by Officer Baker Thursday on the charge of stealing old iron.

The warrant was sworn out by Herman Cohen of the arm of J. Cohen and son.

It is alleged that the boys have been in the habit of waiting until a car was loaded with iron when they would steal from it and take the iron back and sell it to the firm. The boys were placed in jail and will be given a hearing before Justice Dyer this morning.

ALL FAVOR OILING

An item printed yesterday indicated that there is some difference of opinion in the Murrayville town board over the question of oiling the streets. The facts are just the opposite and members of the board are all enthusiastic for this plan of street improvement. At a recent session of the board W. W. Walker, secretary, was authorized to place an order for the oil necessary for this work. Oiling has been done before in the village with satisfactory results and that was one reason for the sentiment in favor of oiling this year.

MISS ELLIOTT BRIDE IN PRETTY CEREMONY

Well Known Young Jacksonville Girl Weds Mr. L. E. Johnston of Chillicothe—Will Take Western Trip Before Going to New Home

With only near relatives and intimate friends in the assembled company, Miss Erma Lytle Elliott became the bride of Mr. Leonard E. Johnston Thursday evening. The ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Elliott, on Mound avenue. It was especially fitting that the service was said by Dr. Joseph R. Harker, president of Illinois Woman's college, for the bride is a graduate of the college and was a valued member of the faculty for a year. The Elliott home, which is one of the handsomest in Jacksonville and its suburbs, was beautifully decorated for this event. Pink and white sweet peas, roses of the same hue, water lilies and smilax were all used with artistic effect and the flowers and foliage added very largely to the sum total of the beauty and grace of the wedding scene.

The wedding party entered the living room just at 7 o'clock as Miss Luu D. Hay at the piano, with violin accompaniment by Mr. Fred G. Meyers, played the wedding music from Cowan's "The Rose Maiden." First came the little flower girl, Anna Margaret Vanner, dressed in white silk and carrying a basket of pink and white sweet peas, with the wedding ring on a satin cushion. The maid of honor was Miss Rose Ranson, who was gowned in pink silk net over pink taffeta and carried roses of like hue. Miss Altha Straube of Wellsville, Mo., was the bridesmaid and wore silver green taffeta with an overdress of tulle. Miss Straube carried pink roses. Miss Elliott entered the room with her father, Mr. J. A. Elliott. The bridal gown was of white silk lace of exquisite texture over white satin. Her sweeping tulle veil was caught with a spray of orange blossoms sent by California friends and her bouquet was of white roses and white sweet peas.

Mr. Johnston's best man was Mr. Lyle C. Gibson of Chillicothe, Mo., and the groomsman was Mr. James Clay Elliott, a brother of the bride. The bridal party stood before Dr. Harker at the west side of the room and the impressive ring ceremony was used. As the words were being spoken the notes of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin were heard and after the ceremony Schubert's "Thou Art My Rest." Closely following the final words of the service the guests extended their hearty congratulations. An elaborate supper was served to the wedding party and guests, seated at tables placed in the several beautifully decorated rooms at the disposal of the guests, the Peacock Inn catering.

The bride, who is the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Elliott, is a graduate of the Woman's college in the class of 1914. The year following she took a master's degree in mathematics at the University of Illinois and then for a year was a member of the faculty of her alma mater. Mrs. Johnston is a member of Phi Beta Phi and a young woman of unusual mental attainments as well as special graces of character and person.

Mr. Johnston, who is not so well known in Jacksonville, is held in very high regard in Chillicothe, Mo., his home city, where he is the proprietor of an extensive mercantile establishment. He is a Columbia University man and a member of Alpha Delta Phi. The wedding gifts gave certain evidence of the regard of relatives and friends and in this list will include a check for $1,000 from the bride's father.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left on a late train for Kansas City and will visit several cities in the west before going to Chillicothe. They will be at home there after April 1 in the Grace Simpson apartments.

Among out of town guests were Col. Henry B. Scott, Kittery Me., and Burlington, Iowa; William F. McFarland, Burlington, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Helm of Bonnville, Mo.; Mrs. M. A. Tracy, Bonnville, Mo.; Miss Agnes Wright, Charles City, Iowa; Miss Marguerite Goldsmith, New York City; Miss Altha Straube, Wellsville, Mo.; Lyle C. Gibson, Chillicothe, Mo. The guest list of Jacksonville people included Gates Strawn, Miss Ella Trabue, Mrs. Minnie Robertson, Miss Beatrice Robertson, Miss Luu D. Hay, Mrs. Charles W. Ranson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vanner, Mrs. J. W. Lowdermilk, Mrs. L. M. Ritchey, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Stearns, F. G. Meyers, Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Harker, Miss Elizabeth Layman, Miss Mary Johnson and Miss Mary Anderson.

DISCUSSES RELATIONS OF JAPAN AND AMERICA

Japanese Ambassador Decries Indifference and Prejudice now Exist—Tells of Japan's Industrial Growth—Vast Export of Raw Silk

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 15.—Almaro Sato, Japanese Ambassador to the United States, addressed the Pittsburgh Press Club at its annual dinner tonight, speaking on Japanese-American relations. The permanence of amity between the two countries was assured, said he, if the people of both countries could have a little more light, to enable them to throw off fear and prejudice which were born of ignorance, and he appealed to the gentlemen of the Washington bureau, when recording instruments are completely installed at the University of Chicago.

An observatory tower with temperature, humidity and rainfall recording instruments is already in operation at Rosenwald Hall under the direction of an expert detailed by Prof. H. J. Cox of the Chicago weather bureau. Instruments for recording the velocity of the wind are also in place and the two Chicago stations are co-operating and comparing the results of observations from the central station with the university branch several miles south.

"We all decry prejudice," said he, "yet we are prejudiced!"

A World Drama

On the other side of the Pacific a world drama is being enacted which is no less important to America than the one in Europe, said the Ambassador, because the Far Eastern drama is constructive instead of destructive. "America should know more of it," said he, "for the world is about to enter upon what might be called a Pacific era and the United States is tip-toeing on the threshold of a new day where she is to be at once a world merchant and a world power."

The ambassador introduced his address by picturing the people of Pittsburgh as a "race of poets" not of the classic type, but "poets of the ultra-modern sort who chisel their cantos in a Panama Canal or trace their lines in steel rails across the continent." Accordingly the ambassador spoke not of the Japan of the lacquer trays and a fan, but of the Japan of achievements.—Japan in her overalls, in the world's market places and at the helms of her ships combsing the seven seas. He said:

Extent of the Empire

In some quarters of this country an impression prevails that the Empire of Japan is a handful of lean islands as sterile as the classic but stern shores of Attica or of your New England States. In a sense this picture is correct. In more senses than that it is altogether wrong.

Some of my friends here present may, perhaps, be astounded to hear that the northernmost edge of our Empire cuts the fifty-first degree north latitude, the same line which nicks the northern tip of Newfoundland and runs through Siberian seas; while in the south our Island of Formosa kicks its southernmost toe through the twenty-second degree north latitude—the same line which goes thru the heart of the West Indies in the Caribbean. From north to south, therefore, the Empire of Japan covers a much greater reach than this great United States. All this naturally gives Japan a wealth of varying climatic belts and their agricultural and marine products.

The impression of the spacious reach of the Empire created by what I have said should be largely discounted. Japan is by no means a continuous chain of islands stretching from the fifty-first degree north latitude down to north latitude twenty-one degrees and forty-eight minutes. A trans-Pacific express line can steam from Koshima, the southernmost port of the group of islands forming Japan proper to Keeling, the northernmost port of Formosa, without sighting land for days. With all that, with our oversea domains, the Empire of Japan has today the total area of over 260,000 square miles or nearly six times as large as the state of Pennsylvania, or about 2,000 square miles smaller than the one state of Texas. And on that area 77,289,000 people have their being according to the official report of 1915.

"And this Empire is no longer drunk with the color and perfume of the four seasons; neither does it sit a long night thru chanting to the silver witchery of the moon. It has laid aside the happy and simple life of Arcadia along with many other childish things. It has come to life in terms of trade and accumulated wealth. As with you Americans, it is the poetry of achievement that guides the headlights of its dreams and its aspirations."

Japanese Industrial Growth

Ambassador Sato told the story of Japanese industrial growth. He told of the first silk factory, established in Japan in 1872 under the supervision of a French engineer, at a time when the total exports of Japan "including everything from silk to dried cuttlefish" amounted to only $8,500,000 a year whereas last year Japan's export of raw silk alone was valued at over $133,500,000. He told how an obscure student established the first match factory in a private house in Tokio in 1875, and how Japan had developed this industry until, in 1916, she exported over $10,000,000 worth of matches. He told of the first cotton ginning mill of the western type in Japan. It was of British manufacture, completed in 1863 and managed by an American expert. "Today," he said, "Japan has 160 spinning factories with the combined paid-up capital and reserve of more than $62,000,000, gold, while cotton yarn came next to silk as the most important item in Japanese exports. Today Japan seems to have more ships in the Pacific than all the American overseas traders put together."

Of late, he said, a great deal had been heard of the withering competition of Japan, especially in the markets of China, but he declared that this was largely a nightmare. The things which Japan was exporting to China were things which America was not anxious to furnish and the things which the United States was selling China were things which Japan was not furnishing to any appreciable extent.

NEW OBSERVATORY FOR CHICAGO BUREAU

Equipment to Be Installed Will Make Station One of Finest in Country—Arrival of Apparatus Delayed by War

Chicago, March 15.—The work of the weather bureau observatory in the federal building here is to be supplemented by what is expected to be the best equipped weather bureau and forecasting station in the country, with the exception of the Washington bureau, when recording instruments are completely installed at the University of Chicago.

An observatory tower with temperature, humidity and rainfall recording instruments is already in operation at Rosenwald Hall under the direction of an expert detailed by Prof. H. J. Cox of the Chicago weather bureau. Instruments for recording the velocity of the wind are also in place and the two Chicago stations are co-operating and comparing the results of observations from the central station with the university branch several miles south.

A concrete base for mounting a seismograph has been installed and further equipment in the shape of more delicate instruments is awaiting the arrival of apparatus ordered more than a year ago from England but delayed in delivery by the war.

With the seismograph, which will record earth tremors several thousand miles distant, the weather bureau is awaiting the delivery of a wind pressure instrument. One of these instruments is possessed by the Washington bureau and another is in place at the Harvard University observatory.

"When the new observatory is completed," said Prof. Cox, "the Chicago weather bureau will be as finely equipped as any in the country."

PLAN TO MOBILIZE WOMEN TO SERVE IN CASE OF WAR

Movement Inaugurated in Kentucky to Register Every Woman Available in An Emergency.

Louisville, Ky., March 15.—Plans for mobilizing the woman power of Louisville and Kentucky in readiness for service in the event of this country becoming involved in war, were set on foot here today at a mass meeting of women called by the Louisville Women's Emergency association. A campaign to bring into the organization every woman who may be of service, will be pressed.

This organization, including on its roster practically every woman's organization in the city, will work in conjunction with the National Woman's Service League. Miss Mary Johnston, of Louisville, is temporary chairman of the Kentucky branch of the league.

Questions designed to show her qualifications for some particular task were addressed to each woman present in order that each might be registered and classified so as to make her readily available for service in an emergency.

Because it was felt that the first demand would be for such services the women today were questioned particularly as to their ability to sew, in making bandages and hospital dressings, and as to their qualifications as nurses.

Many of those present have been active in the preparation of hospital supplies, and in other tasks connected with the work of local war relief organizations formed since the beginning of the European war. Two large classes in hospital nursing have already been formed and are receiving instruction regularly under the direction of trained teachers.

LIQUOR IS AGAIN AN ISSUE IN TEXAS

Austin, Texas, March 15.—Unaided by the defeats of the past, the Anti-Saloon League of Texas plans to start another state-wide campaign today for prohibition. State-wide prohibition by constitutional amendment has been voted on twice in Texas, and defeated each time. The question of submission has also been voted on several times and twice ordered, only to be defeated when the issue was brought to a vote. The prohibitionists are determined to drive liquor out of Texas, which is now the largest "wet" area in the whole south and southwest, and promises soon to be the sole remaining state in these two sections of the country in which intoxicants may legally be sold.

In spite of the successive defeats in the efforts to bring about state-wide prohibition by constitutional enactment, the anti-saloon forces have made steady and substantial gains in the fight against the liquor traffic. In a campaign waged along local option lines they have steadily increased the "dry" area during the past few years and have succeeded in putting the liquor traffic out of business in many localities that had been generally regarded as impregnable from attack.

SOUTH DAKOTA BASKET MEET

Huron, S. D., March 15.—Basket ball teams representing high schools throughout South Dakota gathered here today for the sixth annual tournament to decide the state interscholastic championship. Huron college is entertaining the tournament, which this year is to extend over three days because of the large number of contesting teams.

BENCH SHOW OPENS IN CLEVELAND, O.

Cleveland, O., March 15.—A bench show under the auspices of the Western Reserve Kennel club opened in this city today. Several hundred dogs of all classes are on exhibition, including some of the most valuable canines in the country. The show will continue until the end of the week.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR HASSELL HOPPER

Many Friends Assembled at Home for Last Solemn Rites—Mr. Madden Told of Long and Useful Life.

Funeral services for Hassell Hopper were held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the family home, 641 South Diamond street. The Rev. F. B. Madden, pastor of Grace M. E. church, was in charge and he was assisted by the Rev. M. L. Pontius, pastor of the Christian church. Mrs. H. C. Woltman gave appropriate solo numbers to accompany of Mrs. Lucy D. Kolp, floral gifts, brought in beautiful profusion, were cared for by Mrs. Charles Minter, Miss Emma Hunter, Mrs. Alma Chrisman, Miss Anna May Wilson and Miss Nell Hopper.

Burial was made in Diamond Grove cemetery. Matt Starr post G. A. R. were present and conducted the services at the grave. The bearers were Thomas Fox, James Wilson, William Hopper, Robert Hopper, Thomas V. Hopper and Thomas Elsmeier.

OF STURDY ENGLISH ANCESTRY.

"The life of our departed brother," said Mr. Madden, in the course of an obituary sketch, "was a link in that chain of Anglo-Saxon humanity which binds together two continents and two countries. Hassell Hopper was born on the 22nd day of February, 1840, at Scarborough, England. The home of his great grandfather was one of John Wesley's regular preaching places in his days when Methodists were without a home, and had no places of worship even in England. When no preacher was present this good man would enter the pulpit that his own hands had made and officiate as a local minister. Mr. Hopper's grandfather was a prosperous farmer and his father was a well-to-do butcher. His parents, Thomas and Jane English, were yeomen and were staunch Methodists.

In the beginning days of Wesleyan Methodism converts received the sacrament at the hands of the clergy of the church of England. Hassell Hopper was the first of his father's children to be baptised by a Methodist minister.

EARLY RELIGIOUS INFLUENCE.

"Born of such noble ancestry, Mr. Hopper spent a happy childhood amid the beautiful rural scenes of Merrie England, and in the religious atmosphere created by the great Wesleyan revival. At the age of sixteen he came with his parents to America. Immediately on reaching this country the parents brought the family of eleven children and settled on a farm in the neighborhood of Sinclair.

Mr. Madden continued with an account of Mr. Hopper's military career and his life as a soldier for three eventful years. At the battle of Resaca Mr. Hopper received a wound in the knee and the next day while on a forced march, with his wound still bleeding, he suffered a sunstroke. Left with impaired health he was taken prisoner but was soon exchanged and granted a brief parole. He never lost interest in the comradeship of the army and was an active and honored member of Matt Starr post G. A. R.

The sketch was continued: "After return from the army Mr. Hopper was a member for nearly twelve years of the firm of Lambert and Hopper and later bought a farm near Sinclair, where he lived for several years. When he came again to Jacksonville Mr. Hopper became associated with his brother, Charles Hopper, in the shoe business. A few years ago he retired from active business life and has enjoyed the well earned recompense of days well spent in useful endeavor."

LIFE ITS OWN EULOGY.

In conclusion Mr. Madden said: "His beautiful life, with its pleasant memories and hallowed influence, is its own eloquent eulogy. This is the priceless legacy of his widow and his children. Theirs also is the sympathy and appreciation of the church and community. May our Heavenly Father stimulate us to emulate his virtues and to press the battle of righteousness to the gates of the evening in the valiant spirit of our fallen comrade."

HOWEVER IT BE, IT SEEMS TO ME,

"Tis only noble to be good,
Kind hearts are more than coronets
And simple faith than Norman blood."

NEW BOSTON-WASHINGTON SERVICE.

New York, March 15.—The Pennsylvania and the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad companies have fixed today as the date for running the first trains over the lines of the New York Connecting Railway system, the principal link of which is formed by the great bridge recently completed over Hell Gate. The new system forms a connecting link between the Pennsylvania and the New Haven roads and will enable the running of thru trains between Washington and Boston without change. It is understood that when the line is in perfect running order, at least five thru passenger trains a day in each direction will be operated.

DARTMOUTH-COLGATE DEBATE.

Hanover, N. H., March 15.—Arrangements have been completed for the intercollegiate debate to be held here tomorrow night between representatives of Colgate University and Dartmouth College. The Colgate debaters will uphold the affirmative and the Dartmouth representatives the negative side of the question: "Resolved, That the Swiss military system of training should be adopted in the United States."

PROGRESSIVES DECLARE POLITICAL BELIEF

Will Support Party Which Adopts Program of Fundamental Democracy—Federal Farm Loan Bank Meets With Favor in Omaha District

Omaha, March 15.—Nebraska members of the Progressive party who in the last campaign enrolled in the Wilson Independent League have made the receipt of an invitation to participate in a conference of progressives and independents in St. Louis April 12, the occasion for a declaration of political belief.

They have announced their intention to support either the Democratic or Republican party if either "in good faith adopts and adheres to a program of fundamental democracy." Otherwise they favor organization of an independent national liberal party.

The program calls for government ownership of public utilities, including railroads; taxation of land in the direction of the single tax; nationwide prohibition and an international agreement to maintain peace by the establishment of written international laws and their enforcement thru international courts; equal suffrage; presidential primary; state-wide primaries; extension of initiative and referendum; simplified ballot and recall of judicial decisions.

Omaha, March 15.—Indicative of the kindly reception which the new federal farm loan bank is receiving in this district is the fact that within two weeks after its organization applications for loans aggregating $2,425,000 have been received by Secretary Frank G. Odell.

Announcement is also made that forty-nine local farm loan associations have been organized and have filed their articles of incorporation with the Omaha bank. Twenty-six of these associations are in Nebraska and have asked for loans of $1,369,160. South Dak., with fifteen associations, ask for $4,604,180; Wyoming with six associations, for $335,000; Iowa with two associations for $114,500.

The farm loan law requires each association to subscribe for capital stock in the Omaha bank to the extent of five per cent of the loans granted. On this basis, the amount of loans asked for will bring $121,235 to the stock of the Omaha bank.

Secretary Odell states it will be thirty days before first loans will be made as the appraisers have not started their work.

NURSES NOT TO ADMINISTER ANAESTHETIC

Under Recent Court Decision Only Licensed Physicians Must Undertake Task

Frankfort, Ky., March 15.—Trained nurses will no longer be permitted to administer an anaesthetic in Kentucky, even when working under the direct supervision of the surgeon who is performing the operation, according to a recent decision of the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Only those persons regularly licensed as practicing physicians will be allowed to undertake this task.

The court's decision is the outcome of a suit instituted by Dr. Louis K. Frank, of Louisville, and Miss Margaret Hatfield, a nurse employed by him.

Miss Hatfield in a period extending over several years had administered anaesthetics in several hundred cases, under the direction of Dr. Frank. Then came a ruling of the State Board of Health that the performance of such a service constituted the practice of medicine, and that it could be performed legally only by those persons licensed as practicing physicians. Soon afterward suit was filed by Dr. Frank and Miss Hatfield to test the authority of the Board of Health to issue such a ruling.

The court found the provision of the law pertaining to physicians and nurses was a police regulation designed for the protection of society, and that the interest of the individual must be set aside.

Acknowledgement was made of the fact that no question has been raised in regard to the competency of the nurse. But it was asserted, to permit a deviation from the strict letter of the law might set a precedent which would result in opening the door to practices opposed to the public interest.

In opposing the ruling of the Board of Health, counsel for Dr. Frank and Miss Hatfield sought to show that it was a common country-wide practice among surgeons to have trained nurses administer anaesthetics.

WOMEN PERMITTED TO VOTE.

Cleveland, O., March 15.—Women of East Cleveland were permitted to vote in the special $575,000 school bond election in the suburb today. The ballots cast by the women will be kept separate. They will not be counted unless the supreme court rules, in a suit now pending, to uphold the suffrage provision of the East Cleveland charter.

JAPANESE AMBASSADOR TO SPEAK.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 15.—Almaro Sato, the Japanese ambassador at Washington, came to Pittsburgh today to be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the annual dinner of the Pittsburgh Press Club.

TOSSENS TO BATTLE FOR TITLE.

Chicago, Ill., March 15.—All is in readiness for the A. A. U. national basketball championships to be held here under the auspices of the Illinois Athletic club. Leading amateur teams from all sections of the country are entered in the tournament. The Second Illinois Infantry armory has been secured for the contests, which begin tonight and will continue through the remainder of the week.

Miss Eulah Olds of Decatur was a guest of friends in the city Thursday leaving in the afternoon for Carrollton where she will be the guest of Miss Blanch Miller for several days.

Omaha, March—Joe Stecher, the Nebraska wrestler and claimant of the world's championship, and Earl Caddock, of Anita, Ia., have been matched for a finish bout in this city on the night of April 9. Frank Gotch has evinced much interest in Caddock and will direct the training of the Iowa wrestler.

in 1914 has there been so much interest in a boxing bout in Milwaukee, or perhaps in the west. The two former champions boxed before the greatest crowd in the history of the sport in Milwaukee, the receipts approximating $40,000.

Crawfordsville, Ind., March—Harry M. Scholler, probably the fastest second baseman ever turned out at Indiana University and former manager of the Evansville Central League club, has been engaged to coach the Wabash college nine this season. He is giving the men daily workouts in the gymnasium.

Minneapolis, March—There will be no 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway next Memorial day, if, in the meantime, the United States should declare war, according to James A. Allison, secretary-treasurer of the executive board of the American Speedway association.

"If the time for this country to enter the war should ever come," Mr. Allison said, "everything under my jurisdiction will be placed at the disposal of the government. Besides, I would not want to be engaged in a sport that would consume materials, such as rubber and steel, that the government could use."

Warsaw, Ind., March—"Pottsy" Clark, former University of Illinois football star, has been signed as athletic director of Winona assembly for the coming season. With the signing of Clark, the enrollment of male students at Winona College is expected to reach the largest in the history of the school.

Indianapolis, Ind., March—The two members of the Western Conference in Indiana—Indiana University and Purdue University—are heartily in favor of the return of the University of Michigan to the conference, provided, of course, the Wolverines live up to the conference rules.

Dispatches from the two schools state that it is the opinion of the student leaders that the addition of Michigan to the conference would break up the "Big Four" and "Little Five" combinations and would help the smaller members of the conference in getting more important football dates.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March—Track stars of the University of Michigan are ready for their dual meet with Cornell here Saturday, March 17. Cornell has won an enviable reputation in track athletics since the last meet with Michigan and promises to press the Wolverines hard for first honors.

Detroit, March—Purses totaling $170,000 will be offered in the Michigan Short Ship circuit this season, there will be twenty weeks of racing starting June 4 and closing in October. This season promises to be the biggest in the history of harness horse racing in the state.

Appleton, Wis., March—Edwin N. Holmes of Middlebury College, Vermont, has been selected to succeed Mark Catlin as head football and basketball coach at Lawrence. Holmes comes to Lawrence with ten years' experience, having coached at William Jewell college and Springfield, Mass. The football schedule for 1917 follows:

Sept. 29—St. Norbert's college at Appleton;
Oct. 6—University of Wisconsin at Madison;
Oct. 13—Carleton college at Northfield;
Oct. 20—Lake Forest College at Lake Forest;

Oct. 27—Marquette University at Milwaukee;
Nov. 3—Beloit college at Appleton;
Nov. 10—Carroll college at Waukesha;
Nov. 17—Ripon college at Appleton.

Shreveport, La., March—Members of the Cincinnati Nationals are wondering if Christy Mathewson, manager of the club, has a desire to pitch again. The "Old Master" is testing his pitching arm in the camp here with evident interest.

Matty isn't working too hard, however. It's probable that he'll take a fling in the box if his pitching staff becomes badly crippled. He has nothing to say however, in that regard.

Cleveland, March—Stanley Czajek, pitcher with the Cleveland Americans, whose brother, Harry, is a star hurler with the Detroit club, has another brother, who, Stanley believes, has a better arm than either Harry or himself.

John is his name and he can stand the ball around with terrific speed," Stanley said. "He should have been a pitcher. But somebody told him he was an infelder and he still believes it. That's why he's still with the minors."

Columbus, March—Joe Rivers, the California lightweight, has been matched to box Johnny Harvey, a New York Italian, here March 19. Rivers is training in Chicago.

St. Paul, March—Catcher Walter Mayer of the Chicago Americans will return to the St. Paul club if Manager Mike Kelly can negotiate the deal. Mayer played with St. Paul last season.

Milwaukee, Wis., March—Benny Leonard, New York lightweight, and Ritchie Mitchell of Milwaukee, aspirants to the world's championship, have been matched for a ten round, no-decision contest in Milwaukee on April 17. This announcement came following the failure of a plan to bring Welsh and Mitchell together at New Orleans in a 20 round bout for the world's championship.

Not since the Wolgast-Ritchie bout

in 1914 has there been so much interest in a boxing bout in Milwaukee, or perhaps in the west. The two former champions boxed before the greatest crowd in the history of the sport in Milwaukee, the receipts approximating $40,000.

Crawfordsville, Ind., March—Harry M. Scholler, probably the fastest second baseman ever turned out at Indiana University and former manager of the Evansville Central League club, has been engaged to coach the Wabash college nine this season. He is giving the men daily workouts in the gymnasium.

Minneapolis, March—Although insisting he is not a pacifist, Joe Tinkler, owner of the Columbus club of the American association, balks on military training for members of his squad.

"Of course, if there is a call to arms, it would be a good thing, but at present I don't think much of the scheme. It seems like a waste of money to send drill sergeants to the camp to instruct 30 or 40 players who are likely to look on the work as mere amusement."

Members of the Columbus squad are training at Pine Bluff, Ark.

Detroit, March—Gilmour Dobie, for several years football coach at the University of Washington, comes to the University of Detroit with a record unequaled by any other gridiron coach. He has gone through twelve years without a defeat marked up against any of his teams.

Dobie's eleven have played fifty-two games, winning forty-nine and tying three. The grand total of points scored by his teams was 1,656 against the opponents' 118.

The coach has been informed that plenty of good material is available to build a strong team at the University of Detroit this fall.

Waxahachie, Tex., March—John T. Wood, a pitcher, was first of the Detroit baseball club's recruits to leave the training camp. His arm, overworked last season, was in such poor shape that even practice was dangerous and he went to Ohio to consult a specialist.

Wood starred last season with the Portsmouth, Va., club of the Virginia League. Toward the end of the season when the pennant race was red hot, Wood was used continually and his arm paid the penalty.

INDIA ASSUMING GREATER SHARE OF WAR BURDEN

Energies of Government Officials Confined to War Questions—Strict Economy Practiced by Populace.

Delhi, India, March.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—India is daily assuming a greater share of the burden of war, and it is becoming less and less possible to say that she is not playing her part in the great struggle. The energies of the leading officials of the central Indian government are now practically confined to war questions.

Within the past few days orders have been issued forbidding any women and children to sail for England except for the most urgent reasons, and the government is preparing to publish an edict that no further import of foodstuffs, except a few minor essentials, from England to India, shall be allowed.

The railway service in India has been curtailed by 700,000 train miles per month in order to save the wear and tear on rolling stock. Coal economies are being practiced not only by the railways but by the state, by the Viceroy and by private companies and individuals generally. The cutting-off of all extravagance in domestic life is constantly being emphasized and enforced.

An excellent example of patriotism has just been set by the Cawnpore Woolen Mills, which has turned over to the government 23,000 pounds, their estimated extra war profits, besides investing their entire reserve fund of 200,000 pounds in war loan.

The government's announcement of compulsory military training for all Europeans in India has met with a quick response. Along the same lines is the new department of munitions under Sir Thomas Holland, which is mobilizing the industrial and natural resources of the country for the assistance of the mother country. A heavy increase in the present output of munitions and equipment will be shown within a few months.

The development of forestry and agriculture is being attended to by a committee of experts under Sir Claude Hill. The import of automobiles was prohibited last month, and economies in petrol consumption are being enforced rigidly. An additional duty of six annas per gallon is to be imposed shortly to assist in controlling the petrol question.

Meanwhile gifts for war purposes continue to flow in from all classes of the population. Large monetary contributions have been received during the past few weeks from several of the native princes. The chiefs of the district of Gurdaspur have given aeroplanes, the Maharaja of Indore has sent 900 tons of grass, and the Maharaja of Bikkanir has raised three new companies for the Indian Camel Corps.

CANCER INCREASES AS RESULT OF WAR

London, March.—For the first time, the mortality from cancer in England has overtaken that from tuberculosis. At the present time, about 40,000 deaths annually are ascribed to cancer.

The Cancer society in its annual report, expresses the belief that a large increase in cancer cases must be expected as a result of the war.

"It is a matter of common knowledge," says the report, "that cancer frequently develops at the site of a former scar or wound. Whatever the underlying cause of the malady may be, the lamentable fact remains that as a result of the present unparalleled warfare, we shall have to face in the near future a most serious increase in malignant growths in the men who have served their country in the field."

IN MEMORY OF "OLD HICKORY"

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The high reverence in which the memory of Andrew Jackson is held is to be given expression throughout the country today by exercises commemorating the 150th anniversary of the birth of the famous soldier and president. Many organizations of Democrats, who look upon "Old Hickory" as their "patron saint," have arranged meetings and banquets in honor of the anniversary. Suitable commemoration of the day is also expected to take place in many of the cities and towns named in honor of the victor of New Orleans.

W. T. Snyder of Decatur was one of the transient guests in the city yesterday.

SUGGESTION TO WOMEN

Who Are Just "Ready To Drop"

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help. You can get it just as Mrs. Maxwell did. She says:

"I keep house for my little family of three, and became completely rundown. I was weak, nervous and could not sleep; finally I was unable to do my house-work. A friend asked me to try Vinol. I did so and improved rapidly. It toned up my system, I regained my strength, am no longer nervous, sleep well, and do all my housework." Mrs. J. C. Maxwell, Montgomery, Ala.

There is no secret about Vinol. It owes its success to beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates, the oldest and most famous body-building and strength-creating tonic.

So many letters like the above are continually coming to our attention, that we freely offer to return the money paid for Vinol in every case where it fails to give satisfaction.

The World's Greatest Judge.
If greatness consists of great ability linked with great opportunity, then we must pass unchallenged the declaration that Marshall is the greatest judge in the language, states Hugh H. Brown in Case and Comment. No English judge ever had the coy evidence a widow shows when she desires to enter the bonds of matrimony again. Some of them were hideous, others of as pretty a kind as the circumstances or taste of the lone widow would permit, and it was by this minute appeal intending suitors were made aware of her intentions and invited to "inquire within." Wreaths or corn marked the houses of a marrable girl.

To my astonishment and amusement I was informed that the doll was the coy evidence a widow shows when she desires to enter the bonds of matrimony again. Some of them were hideous, others of as pretty a kind as the circumstances or taste of the lone widow would permit, and it was by this minute appeal intending suitors were made aware of her intentions and invited to "inquire within." Wreaths or corn marked the houses of a marrable girl.

The Servians are a singing people, and the women, who are very poetical, sing as they spin during the long evenings. They sometimes compose music to the old ballads as they sing them. The country is called "the poor man's paradise," and Mrs. Gordon thinks the title appropriate, "for one rarely sees the poor or the beggar, and, though there may be smells, there are no stumps and no unemployed."

Perilous to Handle.

The production of chrysanthemum, a medicinal principle much used in paroxysm skin diseases, is attended with great peril. It forms about 50 percent of goa powder, obtained from cavities in the Brazilian araroba tree (Andira inaraboi), and in securing this powder the trees are felled, though eighty to one hundred feet high, and often three feet in diameter. The material is found as damp pulp or lumps in the center of the trunks, the yield sometimes reaching sixty or sixty-five pounds per tree, with none at all in some trees. The accompanying caustic liquid makes the substance difficult to handle and, despite gloves and masks, workers for any length of time invariably lose their hair, eyebrows and eyelashes and sometimes even become blind, while sores from the burns may cause long disability. A cat has been known to lose its fur from sleeping on a bag of the powder.

Strength of a Flower.

One of the most remarkable exhibitions of plant force I ever saw, says John Burroughs in "The Breath of Life," was in a western city, where I observed a wild sunflower forcing its way up through the asphalt pavement. The folded and compressed leaves of the plant, like a man's fist, had pushed against the hard but flexible concrete until it bulged up and split and let the irrepressible plant through. The force exerted must have been many pounds. I think it doubtful if the strongest man could have pushed his fist through such a resisting medium.

Life activities are a kind of explosion, and the slow continued explosions of this growing plant rent the pavement as surely as powder would have done. It is doubtful if any cultivated plant could have overcome such odds. It required the force of the untamed hairy plant of the plains to accomplish the feat.

The Longest Fast.

The record for fasting, so far as our best information goes, is held by Graeme, a French murderer, who determined to starve himself to death and from day to day after his arrest refused to eat.

In spite of every effort on the part of his keepers, who first tried to tempt him to eat by placing the most dainty meats in his cell and when that failed attempted feeding him by force, he held out for sixty-three days, at the end of which period he died.

With the exception of Graeme's case the longest well-authenticated instance of fasting on record is that accomplished by Giovanni Succi, who lived at the Royal Aquarium, London, for forty-five days without food.

An Emperor's Compliment.

Napoleon III. had his full share of the Bonaparte wit, tinged with a kindliness all his own. At a ball at the Tuilleries a middle aged officer and his fair partner came to grief. As the mortified veteran scrambled to his feet the emperor extended a hand to him and, turning to the lady, remarked:

"Madame, this is the second time I have seen the colonel fall. The first time was on the battlefield of Magenta."

Mark Twain's Definition.

It is told of Mark Twain that during a conversation with a young lady of his acquaintance he had occasion to mention the word drydock.

"What is a drydock, Mr. Clemens?" she asked.

"A thirsty physician," replied the humorist.

Scorch Marks.

Sometimes scorch marks may be removed by merely laying the dry garment in the sunshine until the rays fade it white again. If the stain remains it may be dipped in soapsuds of some strength and placed in the sun again until the spot is gone.

For Safety.

Limited Time.

"Does the landlady give you your meals on time?" (Sadly) "Yes, but I fear she won't trust me much longer."—Dallas News.

The Opportunity.

The opportunity is often lost by deliberating.—Syrus.

Widows' Dolls In Servia.
Talking of Servia's curious marriage customs, Mrs. Gordon in her book, "A Woman in the Balkans," speaks of a queer looking doll she sometimes saw hanging up in cottage windows:

"To my astonishment and amusement I was informed that the doll was the coy evidence a widow shows when she desires to enter the bonds of matrimony again. Some of them were hideous, others of as pretty a kind as the circumstances or taste of the lone widow would permit, and it was by this minute appeal intending suitors were made aware of her intentions and invited to 'inquire within.' Wreaths or corn marked the houses of a marrable girl."

The Servians are a singing people, and the women, who are very poetical, sing as they spin during the long evenings. They sometimes compose music to the old ballads as they sing them. The country is called "the poor man's paradise," and Mrs. Gordon thinks the title appropriate, "for one rarely sees the poor or the beggar, and, though there may be smells, there are no stumps and no unemployed."

"Audubon and His Hair.

Audubon, the great naturalist, in his career wore his hair very long. He wrote in his diary one day: "I wear my hair as long as usual. I believe it does as much for me as my paintings." However, in 1827 his friends succeeded in persuading him to get his hair cut according to the prevailing fashion.

They sometimes compose music to the old ballads as they sing them. The country is called "the poor man's paradise," and Mrs. Gordon thinks the title appropriate, "for one rarely sees the poor or the beggar, and, though there may be smells, there are no stumps and no unemployed."

"Harvest From One Ad.

Do you know what was the largest harvest ever reaped from an advertisement?

It was the settlement in Pennsylvania of 100,000 German colonists at Germantown, which was the first German settlement in America. We also know that in fifty years double that number of Germans came to William Penn's colony.

Furthermore, history tells us that wars and religious persecutions in Germany caused this then unparalleled exodus of men and women.

But what brought them to Pennsylvania and so made of them the German Commonwealth? An advertisement written by William Penn himself and distributed among the Germans along the Rhine, who had been strucken by the Thirty Years' war,—Philadelphia Ledger.

Won by Good Looks.

One man in English history owed his success in life almost wholly to his good looks. It was George Villiers, first duke of Buckingham. James I. was wanting a private secretary, and when young Villiers applied for the position the king was much impressed with the beauty of his person and the gracefulness of his manners. He gave him the place, and that was the beginning of a great career. From that time to the end of James' reign the history of England was in great part the personal history of George Villiers, the adventurer—first the cupbearer, in a few weeks knighted, then made gentleman of the bedchamber and knight of the Order of the Garter; then successively he was made a baron, a viscount, an earl, a marquis and lord high admiral of England.

Shakespeare's Benefactors.

Of the millions who love to read Shakespeare how many have even heard of Hemming and Condell? Yet to the faithful labors of these two poor players we owe the first attempt to give the world a complete edition of Shakespeare's plays. No collected edition of the poet's work was issued in his lifetime, nor did many of the plays even find their way to print until John Hemming and Henry Condell, Shakespeare's intimate friends and fellow actors, took the task of publication in hand, disclaiming "ambition either of selfe profit or fame in undertaking the design," and being moved solely by "to keep the memory of so worthy a friend and fellow alive as was our Shakespeare."

Confession of a Contributor.

I wish I might never have to dangle my profession on a label. I am always embarrassed when I am forced to expose it—for example, to the frank questions of the doctor's secretary or of a customs official. "Profession?" they ask, and I cringe before the admission, "I am a writer." I don't feel ladylike when I say the words. On such occasions I could give my entire remuneration for an Atlantic essay to be able to say, "I am a laundress."—Winifred Kirkland in Atlantic.

Inquisitive Girls.

Bessie—I almost hate Carrie Dyer! She asks such impudent questions, you know. I was telling her if Frank Barnes had asked me to marry him once he had asked me twenty times, and she had the impudence to ask me if he had asked once. Minnie—The idea! But has he, Bessie?—Exchange

Welcome Joy.

If you ain't got manners ter tell joy good mawnin' when you meets him how does you expect him ter call round' by de place you live at? You better be mighty keerful, fer, while he is full in a good humor, he sho' do expect you ter meet him half-way.—Atlanta Constitution.</p

THIS WOMAN TOLD TO CHOOSE

Between Operation and Death. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Des Moines, Iowa.—"My husband says I would have been in my grave today had it not been for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered from a serious female trouble and the doctors said I could not live one year without an operation. My husband objected to the operation and got me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon commenced to get better and am now well and able to do my own housework. I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to any woman as a wonderful health restorer."—Mrs. BLANCHE JEFFERSON, 703 Lyon St., Des Moines.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from highly prized roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Use "Gets-It," Lift Corn Right Off

Shrivels, Loosens—and It's Gone!

"Just like taking the lid off—that's how easy you can lift a corn off your toe after it has been treated with the wonderful discovery, 'Gets-It.' Hunt the wily world over and you'll find nothing so magic, simple and easy as 'Gets-It.' You folks who have wrapped your toes in bandages to look like bundles, who have used salves that turned your toes raw and sore and caused them to shift from their place and never 'get' the corn, and who have dug and picked at your corns with knives and scissors and perhaps made them bleed and hurt in bad and painful ways and try 'Gets-It.' Just once. You put 2 or 3 drops on, and it dries at once. There's nothing to it. You can put your shoe and stocking right back again and pain is all gone. Then the corn dies a painless, shriveling death. It loosens from your toe, and off it comes. This is the biggest selling corn remedy in the world today. There's none other as good. 'Gets-It' is sold by druggists everywhere. Price 25¢ a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Jacksonville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Armstrong's drug store, Coover & Shreve and J. A. Obermeyer.

Keen Sight of the Gull.

There is perhaps no other bird of land or sea so keen of sight as the common gull. To convince a skeptical friend of this an American naturalist once made some interesting experiments. Two men were passengers on a steamer making twenty miles an hour. A dozen gulls followed them in the steamer's wake without apparent effort and circled in graceful curves over the water. Breaking a cracker biscuit into four parts, less than an inch square each, the naturalist handed one piece to his friend and told him to drop it into the seething waters on the starboard.

Immediately the bit of biscuit became invisible to human eyes, and yet before it had gone thirty yards astern a gull detected it and, dipping into the foam, secured it. One by one it picked up the other bits of biscuit, though neither of the two men could see them. Tearing off a postage stamp from an old envelope the naturalist dropped it overboard. The gull detected the waif and made as if to pick it up. But when within a yard or so of it the bird saw that it was nothing in his line and glided upward again to his favorite station on a line with the topmost truck.

A Moneyless Man.

A man without money is a body without a soul, a walking death, a specter that frightens every one. His countenance is sorrowful and his conversation languishing and tedious. If he calls upon an acquaintance he never finds him at home, and if he opens his mouth to speak he is interrupted every moment so that he may not have a chance to finish his discourse, which it is feared may end with his asking for money. He is avoided like a person infected with disease and is regarded as an incubator to the earth. Want wakes him up in the morning, misery accompanies him to bed at night. The ladies discover that he is an awkward booby, landlords believe that he lives upon air, and if he wants anything from a tradesman he is asked for cash before delivery.—Bruno's Weekly.

Genius and Mediocrity.

Cornelie did not speak correctly the language of which he was such a master. Descartes was silent in mixed society. Themselves, when asked to play on a lute, said, "I cannot fiddle, but I can make a little village into a great city." Addison was unable to converse in company. Vergil was heavy colloquially. La Fontaine was coarse and stupid when surrounded by men. The Countess of Pembroke had been often heard to say of Chaucer that his silence was more agreeable to her than his conversation. Socrates, celebrated for his written orations, was so timid that he never ventured to speak in public. Hence it has been remarked, "Mediocrity can talk; it is for genius to observe."

The Louis Style.

It was the French King Louis XI, who invented gold lace, and it was Louis XIV, who ordered all the silk upholsteries of the palace done in white with figures of gold and blue and a touch of red. The louise silks are named after him, and all the French kings of the name of Louis have had their names brought down to posterity through the invention of some article of dress, whether it be a Louis Quinze heel or a Louis Seize coat, while to Louis Quatorze belongs the honor of a cuff and a hat.—London Telegraph.

High Tribute.

"Don't you think Miss Sweeting's complexion is perfectly lovely?" inquired the infatuated youth.

"I do, indeed," replied the cynical young woman. "In fact, I have told her several times that that shade harmonizes best with the present color of her hair."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Falling Leaves.

When leaves fall they are actually cut off from the stems by a layer of cork that forms across the base of their stalks. No nourishment is left in the dead leaf, but only the waste products of vitality, of which the tree is well rid.

Sees Meaning of It All.

Then, some day, when it seems that she cannot stand it any longer, the average college girl, who by this time is feeling very much below the average, and very incapable of dealing with any problem, will suddenly see what it all means. It may happen in a number of ways, but the result will be the same. Suppose for instance, that she has decided to take her courage in both hands and go calling—perhaps, on Jaroslav Cheloupeka, one of her Sunday school class. She may have to walk around the block two or three times, wondering what on earth she will talk about, and trying to screw her courage to the sticking point, but, finally, she dashes home boldly, thru the yawning door into the blackness beyond, stumbles up three flights of dark stairs, and down a long tunnel-like hall with a door at the end. She knocks meekly and then holds her breath until the door is opened a crack and Jaroslav's funny little face peers out. Somehow it's easier to breathe as soon as he grins his nice little boy grin and calls back into the room, "Oh, gee, Ma, here's teechut!" And it's still easier to breathe when "Ma" straightens up from her wash-tub and dries her red, twisted hands on her apron, because she seems really pleased to see "teechut." She speaks little English—she has been too busy giving the children a chance to learn much herself—but Jaroslav is a willing interpreter, and it isn't long before she and the average college girl have exchanged family statistics.

The Average College Girl and The East Side

(By Miss Helen Crawley.)

Miss Helen Crawley, who last year was instructor at Illinois college and is now engaged in home missionary work in New York, has an article in the immigration number of the Home Mission Monthly which is intensely interesting. Miss Crawley formed an unusual number of friendships while resident in Jacksonville and many people will be interested in knowing about the work that she is doing now.

Miss Crawley is at the James H. settlement house, 3543 East 14th street, New York. Miss Lillian Davis of this city, who went east last fall to study settlement work, is with Miss Crawley. The article referred to, which is printed herewith, not only tells about the work in which Miss Crawley is engaged, but makes valuable suggestions for the handling of the immigration problem. This worker, who is engaged in duties which many would consider arduous and nerve-racking, is able to give testimony based upon experience as to the best methods for Americanizing our foreigners and teaching them something about our ideals and the duties of citizenship. The article is not prosy or visionary and is exceedingly well written and worth while.

With her college days well behind her and her undergraduate self-esteem punctured in several places, an average college girl feels that she can speak frankly of some of the mistakes and experiences which are perhaps typical of almost any girl who plunges for the first time into the whirlpool of New York's East Side. She may have come with sincere purpose and with an eager desire to help solve the "problems" which she has discussed so earnestly in Junior Sociology and Senior Economics, but when she finds herself face to face with conditions and difficulties of which she has never dreamed, the old, gib phrases and the cherished theories seem suddenly pretty poor tools for the living problems which she sees on all sides cannot be solved on "page 320" of any text book.

Stunned by What is Seen.

At first she is stunned by what she sees. Of course she has always known that there is an East Side. She has read "How the Other Half Lives" by Jacob Riis and perhaps in a Y. W. C. A. study course has been thrilled by some of Dr. Steinbeck's descriptions; but discussion of the "immigrant problem," however serious, is a very different thing from seeing and hearing and smelling it all about one. It can't be true that little babies are so many and so dirty, that little boys are really doing and saying the things which they seem to be doing and saying, that fathers and mothers are as tired and anxious and discouraged as they look. The average college girl looks at the sluggish, dirty river, the tall, bear-eyed tenements, their front steps flanked by ash cans, and swarming with dirty, quarreling children, who seem to be endlessly eating thick slices of soggy-looking bread, are growing up in these homes, hungry perhaps for more than bread. With this viewpoint the East Side becomes a frontier—God's frontier—and the girl with a chance to work there is a pioneer setting out upon her great adventure, an adventure which can never end in failure because it's an adventure with folks. Isn't it perfectly possible that behind those bright black eyes of gum-chewing Jennie Gianappi lie dreams and talents, which, if given a chance to live, may some day give thousands of Jennies a chance? Isn't it perfectly possible that the energy and initiative which make red-haired Danny O'Connor the leader of the "Eighty-Thirts" in all their escapades, the tall tenements are homes, the tired-faced women are the mothers in these homes, and the hungry little children, eating their thick slices of soggy-looking bread, are growing up in these homes, hungry perhaps for more than bread. With this viewpoint the East Side becomes a frontier—God's frontier—and the girl with a chance to work there is a pioneer setting out upon her great adventure, an adventure which can never end in failure because it's an adventure with folks.

Immigrant Serious Problem.

The immigrant does bring to America great and serious problems, but at the same time he brings with him a challenge—a challenge which says to all who will listen: "Bring your loaves and fishes to be blessed by the Master, that those who hunger may be fed." No one who has known the immigrant, even for a few short months, can doubt the sincerity of the ideal which, in the vast majority of cases, brings him to America to seek for himself, and especially for his children, a chance for better things. If his coming brings the problems of disease, crime, poverty, low standards of living and labor troubles, it may be that he is not entirely to blame. He has behind him no Plymouth Rock, no Concord, no Gettysburg address. His may have been a past of injustice, of oppression, of ignorance, of poverty and degradation so deep that the change, even to an East Side tenement, is a great step up for him. This being the case, he cannot live according to standards of which he has no conception, because no one of those wonderful Americans, of whom he has heard so much, has cared enough to explain them to him. The fundamental reason for our "immigration problem" does not come over in the steerage.

Church Has Opportunity.

Then, some day, when it seems that she cannot stand it any longer, the average college girl, who by this time is feeling very much below the average, and very incapable of dealing with any problem, will suddenly see what it all means. It may happen in a number of ways, but the result will be the same. Suppose for instance, that she has decided to take her courage in both hands and go calling—perhaps, on Jaroslav Cheloupeka, one of her Sunday school class. She may have to walk around the block two or three times, wondering what on earth she will talk about, and trying to screw her courage to the sticking point, but, finally, she dashes home boldly, thru the yawning door into the blackness beyond, stumbles up three flights of dark stairs, and down a long tunnel-like hall with a door at the end. She knocks meekly and then holds her breath until the door is opened a crack and Jaroslav's funny little face peers out. Somehow it's easier to breathe as soon as he grins his nice little boy grin and calls back into the room, "Oh, gee, Ma, here's teechut!" And it's still easier to breathe when "Ma" straightens up from her wash-tub and dries her red, twisted hands on her apron, because she seems really pleased to see "teechut." She speaks little English—she has been too busy giving the children a chance to learn much herself—but Jaroslav is a willing interpreter, and it isn't long before she and the average college girl have exchanged family statistics.

Is Revelation.

In an immigrant community the work that the church does with the children is by far the most important. To one whose memories of Sunday school consist chiefly of the Saturday night torture of kid-savers and the Sunday morning glory of bobbing curlers and white topped shoes, with incidentally a golden text on a pretty picture card, the Sunday school in an immigrant community is a revelation. Sunday morning with its swarms of eager children waiting outside the door, half an hour before the time for opening, is only the beginning. The Sunday school has ceased to be the old fashioned one-day-a-week affair, and is trying to touch the lives of the children throughout the whole week. There are clubs where boys and girls learn the meaning of real friendship and cooperation; there are gymnasium classes where ideals of fair play and clean sportsmanship can be put into actual practice; there are domestic science classes where the girls discover that even in a very poor home all meals need not be like the one that little Katie described when she said, "Oh, teacher, yes'm, we just stand around the table and grub, and everything is et before everything is on."

WINCHESTER

Atmer Ring is a business visitor to St. Louis for a few days.

Mrs. Mary Robertson returned to her home in Macomb Wednesday. She was called here by the death of Thomas Bean.

The supper given at the Methodist church Thursday evening was very largely realized. An excellent menu was served and a neat sum realized.

Fred Buskirk of El Reno, Okla., is expected to arrive today and his son Samuel will accompany him home.

Mrs. William Lilley is expected to return today from White Hall, where she has spent the winter with her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alonso Ellis.

Judge Funk was a business visitor in Jacksonville Thursday.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH BROTHERHOOD MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Congregational Church Brotherhood will be held this evening in the church parlors. Supper served to members and invited guests at 6:30. Following the supper Dr. W. H. C. Smith of Beverly Farm, Godfrey, Ill., will speak on Social Status of the Feeble Minded in the church lecture room at 1:30, which all ladies and gentlemen interested are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Smith and his estimable wife have been engaged in this special service to a most unfortunate class for many years in a truly philanthropic and humanitarian way. For many years they were at the Lincoln institution and later established a private home at Godfrey known as "Beverly Farm," where they have a rural home and school for these children. Dr. Smith has had a long experience and is a national authority on the important subject.
